US President Biden Signs Bill To Establish Asian Pacific History Museum

President Joe Biden signed a bill on Monday 13th June, creating a committee to look into the possibility of building a national museum dedicated to the history of Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders in the United States.

At a White House event, he remarked, "I'm honored to sign into law something that has been long overdue."

Biden was joined at the ceremony by Vice President Kamala Harris, the first person of Indian descent to be elected to the position. Harris' mother was Indian.

Harris said such a museum will help fight ignorance and dispel misinformation about Asian Americans, Native Hawaiians and Pacific Islander people in the US.

The Commission to Study the Potential Creation of a National Museum of Asian Pacific American History and Culture Act creates an eight-member commission to study how to make such a museum a reality in Washington, including whether it should be part of the Smithsonian Institution.

The Senate majority and minority leader each would name two members of the study commission, and the House speaker and House

Canada: Will extend 'super visa' stays, relax health-insurance restrictions to ease family reunifications

From July 4, the federal government will extend how long Canadians' visiting parents and grandparents can stay in this country and allow them to use foreign health insurance during their time here —two long-sought adjustments to this country's controversial "super visa" program.

The surprise announcement from Immigration Minister Sean Fraser on Tuesday came in the wake of an ongoing review by the parliamentary immigration committee of a private member's bill, C-242, to amend the law to make those exact changes. It was a bid to ease family reunification for Canadians who have parents and grandparents abroad.

"The enhancements to the super visa program allow family members to reunite for longer in Canada, which helps everyday Canadian citizens and permanent residents succeed and contribute to society, while affording their parents and grandparents invaluable opportunities to spend time with their family in Canada," Fraser said.

The committee had already held three meetings and heard from witnesses in response to the Reuniting Families Act, which also sought to ask immigration officials to prepare and table a report on reducing the minimum income requirement that a Canadian sponsor must meet in order for their parents or grandparents to stay here for an extended period.

The changes introduced Tuesday will allow the immigration minister to designate international medical insurance companies to provide coverage to super visa applicants. Details of designated providers will be posted on the department website later. Last week, a senior immigration department official told the parliamentary committee that there was no need to bring in changes to the super visa program.

"Under the current super visa, clients can request extensions while here, meaning that they already have the possibility to stay for five years or even longer without needing to leave Canada," said Michele Kingsley, a director general of the immigration department.

"Allowing foreign providers as proposed by the bill would require consultations with health-sector experts, as well as with provinces and territories to determine which criteria should be included in such a designation scheme. Simply put, there are many unknown impacts of broadening health insurance to foreign providers."

Indian Restaurant "Chai Pani" Is Voted Best In US

The Asheville, North Carolina, eatery was named America's most Outstanding Restaurant at the James Beard Foundation Awards in Chicago on Monday, topping nominees such as Brennan's in New Orleans. Chai Pani, which serves affordable Indian street food in North Carolina, has been named as the best restaurant in America.

It was the first time the honors were awarded in two years, after being canceled in 2020 and 2021 so the foundation could remove systemic bias and as lockdowns to slow the spread of the Covid-19 virus forced the temporary closure of many US restaurants.

The awards also come as Americans are paying the highest prices for food in four decades amid surging inflation that is threatening the broader economy.

This year's award recipients and the nominee slate were more diverse to better reflect the makeup of the US. There was also more geographic variety, rather than years past when many winners came out of New York or Chicago.

The menu at Chai Pani, whose name literally translates to tea and water, features Indian snacks called "chaat" that are known for a mix of spicy, sweet and tangy flavors. Other winners included the Native American restaurant Owamni in Minneapolis, where the staff is 75% indigenous, as Best New Restaurant.

Getting a Real ID or any driver's license in N.J. just got a little easier

The process of getting a coveted Real ID driver's license — which can be used as identification for domestic air travel and to gain access to federal buildings after May 3, 2023 — just got a little easier.

Starting on June 15, drivers will no longer need to show a social security card or other documentation to prove their social security number thanks to changes in the federal Real ID law that allow a social security number to be electronically verified with the Social Security Administration database. MVC officials said this "change applies to Real ID and standard driver's licenses as well as non-driver ID cards."

State Motor Vehicle Commission officials announced the change on Monday to conform with the federal Real ID Modernization Act. That law streamlined the application process by eliminating the requirement for a driver to provide documents to prove their social security number.

MVC Chief Administrator Sue Fulton issued a waiver to conform with the federal law on Monday, which takes effect on Wednesday.

That federal law, passed in December 2020, supersedes a 2019 state law that requires applicants for New Jersey licenses or non-driver IDs to present documents, such as a Social Security card or W-2 form, to prove their Social Security number. That change also gives drivers who apply for a standard license the same break.

President Biden to Nominate Dr. Arati Prabhakar to Lead Office of Science and Technology Policy

President Biden announced his plans to nominate Dr. Arati Prabhakar to be Director of the Office of Science and Technology Policy (OSTP), and, once confirmed, Assistant to the President for Science and Technology. Dr. Prabhakar will serve as the President's Chief Advisor for Science and Technology, co-chair of the President's Council of Advisors on Science and Technology, and a member of the President's Cabinet in this role.

"Dr. Prabhakar is a brilliant and highly-respected engineer and applied physicist and will lead the Office of Science and Technology Policy to leverage science, technology, and innovation to expand our possibilities, solve our toughest challenges, and make the impossible possible," said President Biden. "I share Dr. Prabhakar's belief that America has the most powerful innovation machine the world has ever seen. As the Senate considers her nomination, I am grateful that Dr. Alondra Nelson will continue to lead OSTP and Dr. Francis Collins will continue to serve as my acting Science Advisor."

Prabhakar has been unanimously confirmed by the Senate before, to lead the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST), and was the first woman to hold that role. She later served as director of the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA), the birthplace of breakthrough technologies like stealth aircraft and the Internet. If confirmed to lead OSTP, Prabhakar would become the third Asian American, Native Hawaiian, or Pacific Islander to serve in President Biden's Cabinet, joining Vice President Kamala Harris and U.S. Trade Representative Katherine Tai. Today's nomination is historic, with Prabhakar being the first woman, immigrant, or person of colour nominated to serve as Senate-confirmed director of OSTP.

As of 12:01 AM ET on June 12, 2022, the CDC will no longer require air passengers traveling from a foreign country to the United States to show a negative COVID-19 viral test or documentation of recovery from COVID-19 before they board their flight.

US General on Chinese Infrastructure Build-up Near Ladakh

A top US general has said that Chinese activity near Ladakh is "eye-opening" and some of the infrastructure being created is alarming.

General Charles A. Flynn, Commanding General, US Army Pacific, described it as "destabilizing and corrosive behavior" by China as he talked about the Chinese infrastructure build-up across the Himalayan frontier.

"I believe that the activity level is eye-opening. I think some of the infrastructure that is being created in the Western Theatre Command is alarming. And so much, like across all of their military arsenal, one has to ask the question, why," the General, who oversees the Asia-Pacific region, told a select group of journalists.

General Flynn said China's "incremental and insidious path, and destabilising and corrosive behaviour" projected on to the region was "simply not helpful".

"I think it is worthy of us working together as a counterweight to some of those corrosive and corrupted behaviors that the Chinese [demonstrate]," said the General.

India and the US are set to conduct high-altitude training missions at an altitude of between 9,000-10,000 feet in the Himalayas as part of the Yuddh Abhyas exercises this October. The location has not been specified. Indian forces will then train in similar extreme-cold weather conditions in Alaska.

The exercises are meant to be extremely high-level joint operations across the gamut of high-altitude warfare.

This includes new technology, Air Force assets, attack aviation, logistics, and information sharing on a real-time basis. "These are all invaluable opportunities that the Indian Army and the US Army can capitalize on," General Flynn said.

The ruling party takes strong measures to address the protests registered by its Arab trading partners

After BJP spokesperson Ms. Nupur Sharma made controversial remarks during a televised debate, which were seen as offensive and Islamophobic, India's ruling party disciplined the two officials involved.

MS Sharma later withdrew her remarks and said it was never her intention to "hurt anyone's religious feelings." On Twitter, Sharma said her words were a response to derogatory comments made during the debate about a Hindu god. "If my words have caused discomfort or hurt the religious feelings of anyone whatsoever, I hereby unconditionally withdraw my statement," she said.

Another BJP spokesperson, Naveen Jindal, who has since been expelled, had also made comments about the Prophet on social media.

The BJP said on June 5 that it had suspended Sharma and expelled Jindal from the party. The Bharatiya Janata Party is also strongly against any ideology which insults or demeans any sect or religion. The BJP does not promote such people or philosophy, "the party said in a statement on June 5 without directly referring to the comments from Sharma or Jindal. Police in the Indian capital Delhi have also registered cases against Sharma and several others accused of disrupting public tranquillity and incitement, according to a tweet from the Delhi police's official Twitter account.

Mithali finished her international career with a staggering 10,868 runs – the most in women's cricket. She scored 7805 ODI runs in 232 matches, at an average of just over 50 while has 2364 runs in 89 T20Is, as well as 699 runs in 12 Tests, including a century and four half-centuries.

The 39-year-old Mithali, who captained India to the final of the ICC Women's World Cup 2017, also holds the record for the most matches (28 matches) captained in Women's World Cups, breaking Australian legend Belinda Clark's record during the ICC Women's World Cup 2022 in March.

She also led India to four consecutive Asia Cup triumphs — 2005-06, 2006-07, 2008, and 2012. However, perhaps Mithali's most significant achievement as captain came in 2014 as India sealed a historic Test series victory in England, with Mithali guiding the team home with an unbeaten 50 in the second innings.

As a skipper, Mithali has 89 wins out of 155 – the most by any player in women's ODIs. Her 155 matches as captain are also the highest in women's ODIs.

The batter also became the second youngest centurion after she scored a century on ODI debut in 1999. At 16 years and 205 days, she became the youngest centurion in women's internationals. The record was only broken 22 years later in 2021, when Ireland's Amy Hunter achieved that feat on her 16th birthday.

The veteran has also most runs in a series by captain. In the 2014-17 ICC Women's Championship, Mithali scored 535 runs in 17 matches, the most by an India captain in an ODI series.

The 39-year-old Mithali also played most matches (232) and hit most fifties (64) in women's internationals ODIs. Mithali is also the only Indian woman to score a double century in Tests. Her score of 214 (v England in 2002) is the second-highest individual score in women's Tests.

OSU names Jayathi Murthy its next president

Oregon State University's Board of Trustees voted Tuesday to confirm Jayathi Murthy as the university's next president.

Murthy is currently dean of the School of Engineering and Applied Science at the University of California Los Angeles, where she's the first woman to hold that position. She's also a professor in UCLA's mechanical and aerospace department.

She'll be the first-ever woman of colour to lead Oregon's largest public university.

"This is the right place and right time," Murthy said in a statement Tuesday. "I am very impressed by Oregon State University. OSU is well-positioned to address the many challenges in how higher education will be best provided in the years ahead thanks to the university's excellent faculty, staff and leaders, and its commitment to student success, inclusive excellence and its long experience and leadership in online education."

Murthy said she will ensure all OSU students have "strong student support services," such as advising and financial aid.

Murthy will step into her new position at OSU in September. She will replace the university's interim president, Becky Johnson, who has been in the position since May 2021.

Remembering the Emergency

My father's prison mates were Haji Mastan and Sukhar Narayan Bakhia

JUNE 21 2021

L K Advani had famously chastised Indian media during the Emergency saying "You were asked only to bend, but you crawled." It should have ideally covered some spineless politicians too. During the Emergency thousands were put in jail and no one knew when the dark era would end.

My political activist father K R Sundar Rajan, who was also a journalist working for a national English daily in Mumbai and would write articles for the foreign press too, was picked up at night and taken to Arthur Road jail in Mumbai. His prison mates under MISA were smugglers Haji Mastan and Sukhar Narayan Bakhia. My father said Haji Mastan was having a grand time in the jail with home food and choicest liquor. He offered this fare to my father who said thanks but as "I am a state guest I have to refuse, though I am highly tempted." In the prison of irreproachable character were Mrinal Gore and P W Khandekar, an HR manager at an MNC. They were held in the Baroda Dynamite Case. One of the charges against my father too, was participating in this case - although he didn't know the difference between dynamite and cigarette sticks.

One night when my dad was in prison, his dear friend and professional colleague Abdul Hameed, press secretary to the then president, visited us. He said that he was on an official tour and used the opportunity to give us a morale booster. I must say the government official had some guts.

My father's media house stopped his salary but some of his colleagues passed the hat around. They would call me to meet them at a different restaurant and without much ado, I would be clandestinely handed an envelope containing the salary.

The tangible provocation to jail my father was his final signed article in the foreign press after many assumed names. He was followed and his colleagues in Mumbai handed over his mail to the authorities. My mother was grilled gestapo style till she broke down, but would not and could not help the investigators as she was not familiar with the names of foreign editors and their publications which the questioners reeled off at her.

How does this sordid tale of the loss of freedoms end? The Emergency was lifted by Mrs Gandhi whose coterie of advisers felt it was a grand success. Trains were on time; people were not complaining. Elections were announced. This overconfidence was misplaced. The Congress was trounced. The Indian voters had proved their maturity despite all odds.

By- Deccan Herald

I was waiting in line for a ride at the airport. When a cab pulled up, the first thing I noticed was that the taxi was polished to a bright shine. Smartly dressed in white shirt, black tie, and freshly pressed black slacks, the cab driver jumped out and rounded the car to open the back passenger door for me.

He handed me a laminated card and said: 'I'm Wasu, your driver. While I'm loading your bags in the trunk, I'd like you to read my mission statement.'

Taken aback, I read the card. It said: Wasu's Mission Statement: To get my customers to their destination in the quickest, safest and cheapest way possible in a friendly environment.

This blew me away. Especially when I noticed that the inside of the cab matched the outside. Spotlessly clean!

As he slid behind the wheel, Wasu said, 'Would you like a cup of coffee? I have a thermos of regular and one of decaf.'

I said jokingly, 'No, I'd prefer a soft drink.'

Wasu smiled and said, 'No problem. I have a cooler up front with regular and Diet Coke, lassi, water and orange juice.'

Almost stuttering, I said, 'I'll take a Lassi.'

Handing me my drink, Wasu said, 'If you'd like something to read, I have The Hindu, Times of India, ET and India Today.'

As they were pulling away, Wasu handed me another laminated card, 'These are the stations I get and the music they play, if you'd like to listen to the radio.'

And as if that weren't enough, Wasu told me that he had the air conditioning on and asked if the temperature was comfortable for him.

Then he advised me of the best route to my destination for that time of day. He also let me know that he'd be happy to chat and tell me about some of the sights or, if I preferred, to leave me with my own thoughts.

'Tell me, Wasu,' I was amazed and asked him, 'have you always served customers like this?'

Wasu smiled into the rear-view mirror. 'No, not always. In fact, it's only been in the last two years. My first five years driving, I spent most of my time complaining like all the rest of the cabbies do. Then I heard about the power of choice one day.'

'Power of choice is that you can be a duck or an eagle.'

'If you get up in the morning expecting to have a bad day, you'll rarely disappoint yourself. Stop complaining!'

'Don't be a duck. Be an eagle. Ducks quack and complain. Eagles soar above the crowd.'

'That hit me right,' said Wasu.

'It is about me. I was always quacking and complaining, so I decided to change my attitude and become an eagle. I looked around at the other cabs and their drivers. The cabs were dirty, the drivers were unfriendly, and the customers were unhappy. So, I decided to make some changes. I put in a few at a time. When my customers responded well, I did more.' 'I take it that has paid off for you,' I said.

'It sure has,' Wasu replied. 'My first year as an eagle, I doubled my income from the previous year. This year I'll probably quadruple it. My customers call me for appointments on my cell phone or leave a message on it.'

Wasu made a different choice. He decided to stop quacking like ducks and start soaring like eagles.

A great Thought...

"You don't die if you fall in water, you die only if you don't swim.

That's the real meaning of life.

JANHIT MEIN JAARI

(2022/ Comedy/ Social Drama/ Cinema Release)

This Bold Attempt at A Taboo Topic Is Entertaining and Worth A Watch!

Director Jai Basantu Singh

Cast Nushratt Bharuccha, Vijay Raaz, Paritosh Tripathi, Anud Singh Dhaka, Ishtiyak Khan, Brijendra Kala, Sapna Sand

Writer Raaj Shaandilyaa

One thing that you can be sure of in a Raaj Shandilya film is the fantastic comic punches. And when you have a superb cast of actors voicing them with their own nuanced touches, the results are a notch higher. And that is the trump card of this film.

Despite a many-times-seen small-town premise and a desi dialect combo, what made it most delightful for me was the entire cast, each of whom made it a pleasure to watch.

Manokamna is a sassy small-town girl who, in a desperation to escape marriage, lands up a job of marketing condoms.

Ranjan is a small-town boy belonging to a large family and an extremely dominating, regressive chauvinist father.

When the two fall in love, her job is about to create upheavals, some hilarious and some life-changing.

The film follows a simple and somewhat predictable storyline, lingering on characters and their mutual interactions, smartly using the dialogues and performances. And thereby, the first half is a breeze and you thoroughly enjoy the quirky, funny, and adorable characters.

In the latter part of the second half, they kick in the social message about the taboo around condoms and the importance of protection and avoiding unwanted pregnancies.

And in trying to induce that aspect and the social activism part, the story comes across as slightly off the mark and lagging. But even then, the performances and the relentless touch of humour act as a boon and keep you hooked.

And of course, there is no denying the fact that the message is quite bold. Balancing it with humour must not have been an easy task.

Music is another element that I liked about the film. The songs are a good combination of peppy (the Holi song), melodious (the Punjabi number) and trendy (the rap in the post-film credits). The lyrics were good too. Speaking of performances, that would be a good long list.

Nushratt Bharuccha rules all the frames with aplomb. She looks great. I absolutely loved Paritosh Tripathi as the cute and funny Devi. Sapna Sand as the mother was adorable and hilarious. Loved every scene of hers. Vijay Raaz is great as always and adds zing to his character. Anud Singh Dhaka does justice to his role, though I admit I liked him more in Tajmahal 88. Ishtiyak Khan and Brijendra Kala were great. All the actors in the supporting cast added to the film in their own ways.

Even though I feel the film could have been crisper and its duration shorter than 2 hours 27 minutes, I was thoroughly engaged and invested throughout.

The makers make a daring attempt at a taboo topic and deliver a film that is not only entertaining but conveys important messages (sometimes too preachy, sometimes laced with sarcasm or humour, but all well-meant). There were many laugh-out-loud moments as well as emotional ones.

On the whole, I think the film was wholesome entertainment worth recommending. Total paisa vasool and you walk out of the theatre happy.
